

Knowing when to invoke a numerical method and which technique is most appropriate. Do we need a numerical method and which one? Would an analytical solution suffice? Does an analytical solution exist?

